Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

The following documents are cited in the Search Report:

D1: WO 99/05629 A1

D2: WO 99/19819 A1

When systemizing the e-commerce method of D1, the following is considered as an exercise of ordinary creative activity expected from a person skilled in the art:

- preparing list of products on e-commerce server
- providing sale and purchase registration possibility
- downloading said list to potential buyers and sellers
- bidding and registering each commerce condition
- indicating highest purchase prize and lowest sale price
- expressing purchase or sale intentions

Considering D2, the following practices exercised in Internet business transactions are common technical knowledge:

- transferring a product bill to a designated bank account due to purchase or selling intention
- delivering of products due to transferring product bill
- transferring product bill to seller

The claimed subject matter is easily perceived by a person skilled in the art since it is nothing more than mere combination of human transaction via Internet known from D1 with well known e-commerce business including bank transaction known from D2. Moreover, by comparing the claimed subject matter with the cited documents, no blocking factor for combination of teachings from D1 and D2 can be found therein and such a combination is within the ordinary creative activity expected from a person skilled in the art.

Therefore claims 1 to 18 are lacking of inventive step.
